CARD OF THANKS

The Ladies' Aid of the Hillcrest United Church wish to thank all those who helped in any way to make the supper of September 22nd a decided success; also the Catholic hall committee for tables loaned, and the Knights of Pythias for use of their hall.

Many of his friends in the district will be interested to learn that Lawrence Nelson, former Vulcan boy, has been transferred by the Dominion government from Red Lake, Ontario, to Coleman, Alberta, where he will have charge of the Canadian Airways' code station. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson passed through Vulcan recently on their way to Coleman.—Vulcan Advocate.

FALLS YOUTH ESCAPES DEATH UNDER ENGINE

Great Falls, Mont., Sept. 22.—Merle Peterson, 17, of 924 2nd Ave. N.W., narrowly escaped death or more serious injury this morning in an accident in the Great Northern railroad yards, when he was struck by a passenger train near the yard office at the south end of 5th St. S.W.

Peterson, a laborer in the railroad shops, was returning from work and was pushing his bicycle across the tracks at the time of the accident. He walked between two switch engines, it was stated, and stepped into the path of the oncoming train. He said he did not see the train, police said. His injuries, consisting of lacerations of the legs and a bruised back, are not considered serious. He was taken to the Columbus hospital by police following the mishap.

The train which struck him was going west, outbound for Shelby and Glacier Park, and it was travelling slowly. Quick work by the engineer saved Peterson's life, as the engine was stopped after the youth had gone under the cowlcatcher, and the front wheels of the locomotive were near him.

The youth is the son of John F. Peterson, an engineer for the Great Northern, and the grandson of Mr. D. R. McKay, of Blairmore.

A mission will be conducted for the week October 17th to 24th inclusive at St. Anne's Catholic church. The mission week will be in charge of Rev. Father McIsaac, of Calgary, formerly of Nova Scotia. Watch for further announcements.

MRS. SYLVIA EDITH ROBERTS PASSES AWAY IN CALGARY

Mrs. Sylvia Edith Roberts, aged 53 years, wife of John O. Roberts of 235 - 11A St. N.W., Calgary, passed away very suddenly at the family residence Saturday morning.

Deceased was born in Denison, Iowa, and had resided in Calgary for the past two years, where her husband is employed by the Alberta Government Telephones. She had also lived in Blairmore, for four years; in Medicine Hat, two years; and in Lethbridge, nine years; also at Suffield, Alta., from 1909 to 1920.

The late Mrs. Roberts was a member of the I.O.D.E., and was very active in church circles, being a member of the Hillhurst United church at the time of her death.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Robert S. MacMillan, of Lethbridge, and Margaret at home.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. Dr. W. Hollingsworth, were held at The Little Chapel on the Corner (Jacques' Funeral Home), Calgary, on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment following in Burnside Cemetery.

ALBERTA HAS PRESS BUREAU

The provincial government has passed an order-in-council for $5,000 to provide for the establishment of a press bureau to function under the Social Credit board.

According to report from Edmonton, formation of the bureau has a three-fold function, to collect news for distribution to newspapers and radio stations; to distribute statements of board and government policy, and to circulate information.

The bureau will be operated under the direction of the Social Credit board, of which Glen L. MacLachlan is chairman. W. J. Alinutt, former editor of the Alliance Times, has been placed in charge of the bureau, and has already commenced his duties.

The following letter was received by The Enterprise last week end, and is self explanatory:

"Information Bureau, parliament buildings, Edmonton, Alberta, Sept. 20.
"An information bureau has been established by the government for the purpose of giving out information regarding the changes which may be looked for in the very near future. It is felt by the writer that the local newspaper is by far the best way of disseminating the knowledge, and commencing next week a regular bulletin will be issued to each weekly newspaper throughout the province.

"Especially with regard to the banking reform legislation and other such important matters, the people are seeking enlightenment, and I think the value of your paper as a source of interest and information will be considerably enhanced by catering to their needs.

"It is not the intention that these bulletins should contain anything of a political nature, and I trust you to accept them sufficiently valuable as to accept them in the spirit in which they are offered.

"Yours truly, W. J. Alinutt, director of public relations."
Commenting on the letter, H. T. Halliwell, president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, Alberta Division, states: "It comes with rather ill grace after the abuse and attempted boycotts against newspapers that such a request should be made, but if it is an indication that the government at last realizes the error it has made in its attitude to the press, then the bulletins might be favorably received, provided they are not issued with the ulterior motive of covering legislative actions."

A meeting of the executive of the Bellevue and District Horticultural Society was held last night at Bellevue.

ROBERT EVANS PASSES IN CALGARY

Robert Evans, former hoist engineer at McGillivray mine, Coleman, former resident of Bellevue and one of the best known residents of the Crow's Nest Pass, passed away in Calgary on Wednesday of this week.

Four years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Evans moved from Coleman to Calgary, where Mr. Evans purchased a retail meat market. They originally came from Wales.

The news of Mr. Evans' passing was broadcast over CFCN. He was a prominent member of both the Masonic and Oddfellow lodges, while Mrs. Evans was actively connected with the Coleman and Calgary branches of the I.O.D.E., as well as church activities. Remains will be laid to rest at Calgary tomorrow afternoon.

ONCE MINING CENTRE WAYNE IS 'GHOST' TOWN

Five-Ringed Homes Offered For Sale at $150

Once a prosperous mining centre, the town of Wayne, near Drumheller, is fast becoming a "ghost town" as mine managers and mine workers alike desert the district.

While at one time more than 500 men were employed by various mines at that point, at present only two mines are now operating, the Jewel, employing about 100 men, and the Excelsior, with only 16 men in all.

Owners are attempting to sacrifice well-built four and five-room homes for as little as $150. Smaller, hastily-built dwellings are listed at $25 and up. Some of the departing citizens unwilling to leave their homes, are moving them away to Drumheller, East Coulee and other valley points. Many, however, after figuring up the cost of moving, are trying to sell at sacrifice prices.

Those moving have difficulty with the numerous bridges along the highway, as buildings have to be cut in half to cross them.—Ex.

Mr. T. C. Rees, representing the Printing Machinery and Ink Company, of Winnipeg, was a visitor in Blairmore on Saturday last, enroute to points west to Cranbrook.

FABRO - DeCECCO NUPITALS

The marriage of Miss Florina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. DeCecco, of Coleman, to Mr. Milo Fabro, of Kimberley, formerly of Blairmore, took place at the Holy Ghost Catholic church at Coleman on Saturday morning last, with Rev. Dean M. A. Harrington, of Blairmore, officiating, assisted by Rev. Father Dunbar, of Coleman.

The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of pink tulle over satin, with a flare skirt, and wore a beautiful white halo hat with veil trimming and matching accessories. Her bouquet was of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Nellie DeCecco, who chose a gown of yellow net over satin, with yellow picture hat to match, and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Bruno Fabro, brother of the groom, supported the groom.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which the happy couple left for Spokane and coastal points. They will take up residence in Kimberley.

VAUDEVILLE AT BELLEVUE

For the first time, people of the Crow's Nest Pass will have the opportunity of seeing vaudeville presented on the stage of a local district theatre at Cole's Theatre, Bellevue—and if this is successful other troupes will be brought in during the season, states Mr. Cole.

The three acts to be presented on Monday include "Angus and Searle," the twin musical comedy and picture stars, who have just completed a twenty-week tour of the continent and are now on their way to Hollywood to try out for the part of the twins in the new production, "Gone With The Wind."

Foley and Lature (man and woman) will present an outstanding novelty act, which includes singing, dancing, elocution, etc., guaranteeing a laugh a minute. They have just completed a five-months' run of Chicago theatres, and their act will make a big hit with local theatre goers.

Collette and Galles (boy and girl) dancing stars de luxe direct from the Agua Caliente hotel in Mexico city, present outstanding dance numbers in beautiful costumes. This couple recently appeared in the picture entitled "Cain and Mable." See ad. elsewhere for dates.

Fending Off Disaster

The season is rapidly approaching when fire hazards of the winter months will be drawn to the attention of the people of the western provinces in campaigns conducted by provincial and local authorities. In it is to be hoped, not a vain effort to curtail the annual loss of life and property through the coming season of cold without and warmth within.

Unless the co-operation of the general public, which means every individual member, is secured to the greatest possible degree, it is feared that the dangers of fire will also be again forcibly brought to the attention of the public in the months to come, in newspaper reports of disastrous conflagrations with their lurid and painful details of houses and contents destroyed, unclad people being forced out of burning buildings to suffer the agonies of burns and frostbites for weeks or months in local hospitals and in some cases, of charred human remains being discovered in the blackened debris of once happy homes.

If the lessons which are taught during these annual fall campaigns are taken fully to heart and the precepts therein propagated are remembered and rigidly put into practice, the winter will pass with few, if any, of these harrowing accounts appearing in the newspapers.

For, it is axiomatic, that the great majority of fires, and particularly those which occur in occupied homes, are the outcome of carelessness, either engendered by ignorance or negligence and in most cases the latter, for there are very few people nowadays who are not fully conversant with the dangers of fire and the precautions which should be taken to prevent them.

Often enough, the necessary precautions are not taken because of a laissez faire attitude. The home owner, frequently, is well aware of weak spots in his heating system and fully intends to remedy them, but because of pressure of other things, neglects to make repairs, clean the chimneys and pipes or provide better protection where the stovepipe passes through a wooden wall, until it is too late and the damage is done.

But there are other causes of fire which must be attributed to more than a laissez faire disposition, where negligence becomes positive and might reasonably be registered in the criminal class. Reference is made more particularly of the habit, all too frequently adopted in this country, of speeding up a sluggish fire, or starting one, with coal oil or gasoline. The danger of this practice must be well known: Too many object lessons have been held up in print from time to time, yet the practice has not been abandoned and dire consequences have ensued.

The use of coal oil is dangerous enough, but when gasoline is used, either with intent or unwittingly, a disaster is not only invited but is almost inevitable.

Even in mid-September, long before the advent of the season of continuous firing, reports appeared in the daily papers of lives sacrificed to this "human error" of recklessly firing embers by pouring coal oil over them. Fortunately in one recently reported case, the victim was a bachelor living alone and his rash act was not visited by death to others than himself.

But when such fatalities are reported in the early fall months, they should give pause and cause one "furious to think," as the French say, in contemplation of the possibilities that lie ahead in the winter months when fires will be multiplied enormously and when smoking the stove and the furnace will be practically a continuous operation.

Raked as they are with driving winds and blizzards for six months of the year, more or less, the prairie provinces afford a perfect stage setting for fire disasters and this should be ever borne in mind by every resident.

In this country the risk of disaster is always potential even where the proper precautions are taken, but where these are neglected the risks are multiplied, perhaps a hundredfold, possibly a thousandfold.

No owner or occupant of a home, store or other building which is required to be heated during the winter should allow the first blast of winter to pass over the land, unprepared for fire hazards. If there is anything that pays dividends, not only in coin but life and limb, it is fire prevention precautions of timely adoption.

In the early fall, before the winter fires are first lighted, is the proper time to check over the heating system. This is the time to underwrite the fire insurance policy, if there is one, by inspecting and immediately remedying every potential cause of a subsequent outbreak and above all to adopt a solemn resolution that neither coal oil nor gasoline will be used in the stove or the furnace under any pretext whatsoever.

On top of that, it would be the part of wisdom to pass another unanimous resolution that this preliminary work will be followed up by periodic inspections through the winter months, when there is always time and opportunity to look things over and remedy defects which may have developed.

Use Of Words

Convey Your Thoughts Clothed In Simple Phrasesology

Short words have greater strength than long ones. Rigid economy in choosing language is in itself a valuable discipline of mind, and a good argument is only blurred by elaborate expression. Moreover, there is a unique flavor in Anglo-Saxon words; in proper combination they have a strength of texture which nothing else can give.

There is no doubt that good speech is an art which all of us should cultivate. To some it comes more easily than others, but of all it demands the drudgery of constant effort. In this country we certainly need to remember the fact. Demosthenes had to work hard to master the art of speaking; men of lesser gifts will find the task no easier.—The New Outlook.

Will Be Used Again

Doll Has Guarded Church Entrance For 53 Years

From its place in the wall of the Anglican Cathedral at Grafton, New South Wales, Australia, a doll has been removed after 53 years and will be set over a new entrance by workmen who are enlarging the house of worship. In 1864, when the cathedral was being built, a bricklayer found a gap over the door. He called to a child playing with a doll and asked her if she would give him something to put in the hole. She handed him her small, nude, legless and armless china doll.

Changes Personality

Charlie Chaplin In Tramp Character A Little Tramp With Haggard Pans, Gargantuan Footwear and Toothbrush Mustache Is No More, Charles Chaplin Has Announced

The tramp sang his swan song, a jumbled lyric, in "Modern Times" after a career that stretched back to 1913.

And Chaplin, his creator, is at work on a story in which he will project an entirely new personality. After a decade of evading talking pictures, the comedian admitted he has decided to attempt the transition from pantomime to speech.

"I cannot say how soon the story will be ready—a year, perhaps," Chaplin said.

"Miss Paulette Goddard will appear with me."

Would Ban Auto Horns

Leave horns off motor cars, G. A. Hodgson, of the Ontario department of highways, told the Industrial Accident Prevention Association at a luncheon in Toronto, and "there would be a 50 per cent decrease in our accident rate overnight."

Manufacturers of all kinds of goods from steel gates to jewelry send their representatives to the London museums to study the exhibits for new ideas.

There's no danger in just taking a sniff of the flower, but the ordinary lily of the valley contains minute quantities of the most powerful heart poison known.

Tragedy Of Frustration

Youth Of Canada Without Chance Of Employment

The "tragedy of frustration" is overtaking thousands of Canadian young persons, Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, lieutenant-governor of Ontario, told Kiwanians at Hamilton. Dr. Bruce was speaker at a luncheon of the 19th convention of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district of Kiwanis International.

"The spectacle of this modern world is not one from which any of us can get any considerable satisfaction," said Dr. Bruce. "Time and again our newspaper makes us very grateful probably that we live where we do."

"Let us glance at something nearer home—the tragedy of lives that are purposeless, the tragedy of a new generation of youth, unwanted youth, that throughout the years of the depression has passed from childhood to adolescence to young manhood and womanhood with unemployment as its familiar companion."

"Fortunately there are, I am glad to say, some organizations which do their utmost to find work for these youngsters and teachers do a great deal of voluntary work to secure positions for boys and girls leaving schools," he concluded.

Dr. Bruce said he was "delighted" at the federal government's recent decision to vote $1,000,000 for the re-establishment of youth throughout the Dominion.

An All-Girl Crew

No Men Are Allowed On English Training Ship

A crew of nine women, commanded by a woman skipper, will "man" the seven-ton yawl Junitia when she sails from the River Dart in England for a fortnight's cruise to the Shetland Islands and the Faroe Islands. Mrs. Charles Pears, wife of the well-known British marine artist, has fitted out Junitia as a women's training ship. Her crew, girls from schools and offices in the North and Midlands, have paid a premium and are signed on as apprentices.

No men are allowed on board. The girls will learn to handle the sailing boat in any weather, and do the work demanded of an expert crew.

Mrs. Pears, who is Commodore of the newly-formed Union of Seafarers, told a Sunday Chronicle reporter how she trains her girl apprentices.

"Strict discipline is my first rule," she said. "My girls are never allowed to become passengers."

"Sailing, the general handling of the ship, knotting and splicing, chart reading and navigation are all in their curriculum."

"Most of my girls come from the North and the Midlands. They generally try to get small boats of their own. This qualifies them for membership of the newly-formed Union of Women Seafarers."

To Extend Trade

Move To Increase British Shipping On The Pacific

The London Daily Mail, commenting on a prospective agreement to increase British shipping in the Pacific, said the British government "must be prepared to go on extending unwavering support; and to secure a fair field and no favor in the Pacific."

"It," the paper said, "Britain's ships are granted help as substantial as their foreign rivals, it won't be long before our ensign again is supreme in the Pacific."

In Canberra, Prime Minister Joseph Lyons said Australia was prepared to co-operate with Canada, New Zealand and the United Kingdom to enable shipping companies to construct two new liners for the Pacific service between Canada and Australia.

Danger From Overeating

Says Fat People Are More Subject To Diseases

Fat persons do not derive the same energy from their foods as the average person and are left more open to diseases and respiratory disorders. It is claimed by Dr. Burgess Gordon, associate professor of medicine at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

At the 45th annual convention of the British Columbia Medical Association, Dr. Gordon told of a man weighing 420 pounds who remained indoors three years because he was a subject of laughter. His starch intake in bread alone was 10 loaves a day.

Overeating, said the Philadelphia physician, is a disease, sometimes hereditary.

Through A Glass Darkly

Latest Fad Seems To Have Originated In Hollywood

Various explanations of the rage for dark glasses have been offered; among the plausible ones, the one that traces it to Hollywood, source of so much of our culture nowadays. It is said that celebrities there took no wearing these cheaters as a sort of domino to conceal identity from their more forward admirers.

Their use against beach glare and the squint that beauty in Hollywood and elsewhere will not risk even for a few hours lest it aid the ravages of time is another common explanation. The commonest one of all, of course, is that they save eyestrain in glare of all kinds for man, woman and child.

Admitting the weight and plausibility of these accounts, though, it is plain that the rage for seeing through a glass darkly is sublimating from utility into a fetish. If the thing goes on, dark glasses presently will be worn against 60-watt lights, candle-light or moonlight, even.

Is it fanciful to suggest that they may come into the category of the eighteenth century domino and beauty spot, aids to conquest that make the most of concealment, a point of loveliness, or sometimes cover a lack of it?—New York Herald-Tribune.

ALICE STEVENS' RECIPES

SANDWICHES PAST AND PRESENT

Once upon a time, in the days of long ago, a warrior could not leave his men and the battlefield long enough to get his meals. It took so long for a knight to be brought in those days, his servant brought him a piece of meat between two pieces of bread and he ate this food on horseback. He was more than delighted with this new dish and gave his name to the food, which is Sandwich and ever since "sandwiches" have been very popular.

So the story goes. Whether it is true or not, we do not know, but it sounds probable.

One of the most substantial part of the school lunch pail. They should be the part of the lunch that is eaten first, as it is a good deal of variety in the filling. Plan to use brown bread quite often.

The selection of the lunch pail itself is important. Do not use cardboard boxes as they absorb odors. Use a container that can be washed and aired and see that this is done quite often. Many appetites are spoiled by stale food.

Each lunch pail is fruit. See that there are a couple of apples in the pail, so that the child can eat them when they are ripe. Fruits help supply the body with the necessary mineral matter and vitamins. When plenty of apples are used in the diet all winter, there will be no spring tonic.

GINGER SUGAR TOPS

4 cups flour
4 cups molasses
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 cup butter
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 teaspoons ginger
1 teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons soda
1/2 cup syrup and 1/2 cup molasses may be substituted for the cup of butter.

Mix the ingredients to make a stiff dough. Roll into balls and dip in sugar. Put in greased pan a distance apart. Bake in a moderate oven 20 minutes. This recipe makes about five dozen cookies.

Keeps On Making Cheese

Product Of Saskatchewan Dry Belt Of Superior Quality

Charles Busby operates a cheese factory at Lisle, in Southern Saskatchewan. And he is right in the dry belt where there is no pasture for cows. At first glance it looks as though Mr. Busby should have folded up his cheese plant and gone out of business.

But he keeps on making cheese and it is of sufficiently high quality to win awards against cheese produced in modern cold storage plants in Regina and Saskatoon.

There are 31 farmers who deliver milk to the Busby cheese factory, and these cows have nothing to eat but Russian thistle which appears to delight in growing where nothing else will make a showing—Peterborough Examiner.

Noiseless Street Car

Has Rubber Wheels Which Operate Silently

Development of a noiseless street car with new standards of comfort was described to the tariff board by George Gray, representing the Canadian Transit Association, Montreal.

The car had been designed at the instance of the United States Transit Association, Gray said, and $1,000,000 had been spent in experimental work before it had been put into service.

"It is an attempt," he added, "to standardize on a vehicle that will compete with buses and private cars."

"The hope has been to produce a street car at from $15,000 to $17,000. As developed it has remarkable powers of acceleration and deceleration. It is silent and comfortable."

The car was described as having hard rubber wheels which run on tracks.

Some of the cars were running in American cities, Gray said, but there was none in Canada yet.

Kept Tennis Crowd Moving

Spectators Stood Every Time Queen Mary Changed Her Position

When the Queen Mother arrived on the last day of the tennis tournament at Wimbledon, the fifteen thousand spectators round the central court stood up like one man, while the players bowed from the court. That is a custom that is always observed. Around six o'clock Queen Mary arose and the fifteen thousand spectators likewise stood up, as if fitting when Her Majesty leaves the grandstand. But to their surprise Queen Mary sat down again. She had just shifted her position out of the sun. A suppressed chuckle ran round the stands, and a chuckle by fifteen thousand people, even if smothered, makes a lot of noise. The sitting sun reached the Queen and Queen Mary changed her position twice more. Twice again all the trusty fifteen thousand stood up. Finally, when Queen Mary was really leaving at seven o'clock, she smilingly signalled the spectators to keep their seats.

HOPE IS SEEN FOR RELAXATION OF TENSION IN EUROPE

London.—The Associated Press quoted an "authoritative source" as declaring that a new balance of power in Europe was made possible by the expected admission of Premier Mussolini to the Anglo-French working agreement.

This source asserted, The Associated Press said, that Mussolini gave France a definite promise not to make Italian troops move to Spain if Italy, Great Britain and France could agree, as expected, on Italy's proper place in the Mediterranean anti-piracy patrol and on other questions.

This promise was said to have been given by Renato Bova-Scopa, Italian representative at Geneva, to Yvon Delbos, French foreign minister at Geneva, and to have been reaffirmed by Italian Foreign Minister Count Ciano in Rome.

Authorities at Rome gave no details on improved Italian relations with Great Britain and France on the eve of Mussolini's visit to Reichsfuehrer Hitler in Germany.

Reliable sources said Italy's cooperation with Great Britain and France depended on the success of technical talks this week in Paris to arrange Italian participation in the anti-piracy patrol. They said no difficulties were foreseen.

Official British circles were openly optimistic of a swift relaxation of European tension. The Associated Press reported. They awaited the outcome of the Nyon naval talks and of Mussolini's visit to Germany, however.

A responsible source told The Associated Press that Ciano repeated Bova-Scopa's assurance of no further Italian troops in Spain to E. M. B. Ingram, counselor to the British embassy in Rome. This source said Ciano added that a "satisfactory solution" of the Spanish situation now was in sight.

Diplomatic circles interpreted this as an indication that Great Britain and France now hope to induce Mussolini to withdraw Italian troops already in Spain as well as to guarantee to send no more.

There was a strong belief in both French and British informed quarters, The Associated Press reported, that Mussolini, having turned in Ethiopia, is making a bid for French and British recognition of Italian empire in order to make Italian rule easier in East Africa.

They expressed belief, The Associated Press added, that Mussolini was faced with making a choice between the two things he wants most—but which—Italian recognition of Italian empire in Ethiopia and a victory for the Spanish insurgents.

Authoritative sources said the reported Bova-Scopa declaration would indicate Mussolini has decided in favor of empire recognition and is willing to pay the Anglo-French price of complete Italian withdrawal from Spain, whatever the consequences to insurgent General Franco.

Alberta Crude Oil

Discuss Turner Valley Pipe Line To British Columbia

Calgary.—Decision to place the question of crude oil importations into western Canada before the federal tariff board was reached here at a meeting of the Turner Valley Petroleum Producers Association. The tariff board has already shown interest in the matter, J. J. Frawley of the attorney-general's department told members of the association. It would also be able to give an exact report on the situation to the Dominion government and make its recommendations, he said. The members also discussed possibility of construction of a pipe line to the Pacific coast, to provide an outlet for Turner valley products there.

A fee of one-half cent a barrel on oil from members' wells was voted to finance the association.

Claims Speed Record

Detroit.—Jacqueline Cochran, New York aviatrix, averaged 293.05 miles an hour in four flights over a three-kilometre course, bettering the women's land plane speed record of 276.527 miles an hour established in 1934 by the late Helene Boucher, of France.

Cattle Shipments Heavy

Regina.—Approximately 40,000 head of cattle have been shipped out of Saskatchewan under the federal government shipping scheme, according to figures released by J. G. Robertson, Saskatchewan livestock commissioner.

Incident Is Closed

Friction With Japan Over Wounding Of British Ambassador Is Settled

London.—Great Britain wrote off diplomatic loggers her friction with Japan over the wounding of the British ambassador to China.

The foreign office informed the Tokyo government it had received "with satisfaction" Japan's final note on the affair and regarded "the incident as closed."

Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen, Britain's envoy to Nanking, was gravely wounded Aug. 28 while motoring from Nanking to Shanghai. Britain, charging Japanese aviators with the attack, protested to Japan, demanding an apology, punishment for those responsible and guarantees against further incidents of that sort.

Japan first returned an "interim reply," stating time was necessary for an investigation. The final reply was handed to Sir Robert Craigie, British ambassador to Japan, by Foreign Minister Koki Hirota. Ambassador Craigie, on instructions from London, returned to Hirota a note which read:

"I have the honor to inform Your Excellency that I have duly communicated to His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom the terms of the note which Your Excellency addressed to me Sept. 21 in regard to the attack on His Majesty's ambassador in China by two aeroplanes in the neighborhood of Shanghai Aug. 28.

"I have now received instructions from His Majesty's government to state that they have received Your communication with satisfaction and regard the incident as closed."

In the circumstances, a friendly power's promise of "suitable steps" regarding punishment was considered sufficient, while the Japanese assurance that "instructions have been sent again to Japanese forces in China to exercise the greatest care in safeguarding non-combatants" was accepted as a reply to Great Britain's demand for guarantees against a recurrence.

Bombing Of Nanking

Japanese Raiders Cause Death Of Many Civilians

Nanking.—Japan's threat to rain death and destruction on China's capital was carried out in disregard of British, French, American and German protests against unrestricted bombing of a great city.

More than 50 Japanese planes took part, in two raids, killing and wounding more than 200 Chinese civilians, mostly in the poorer quarters of the city. Scores were burned to death as incendiary bombs lighted tinder-like straw huts along the Yangtze river front.

Most of those who died were too feeble or helpless to join the great exodus to the open countryside.

In the far south the Japanese air force also struck with deadly effect at Canton, where it was feared more than 500 persons, nearly all civilians, perished in four big air raids. Foreign observers told of piles of bodies in the streets and of scenes of peace and disorder at the railway station as throughs tried to flee from the city.

Japanese raiders were over Nanking a total of four hours, bombing and fighting spectacular combats with Chinese planes. Chinese said four raiding planes were shot down one in the city, one outside the city walls, one on the Yangtze waterfront and the fourth across the river at the Pukow railway station.

Line To Goldfields Hinted

But No Immediate Action On Construction Is Planned

Edmonton.—Construction of a railway line to Goldfields to tap the rich mining area there still is under consideration with three possible routes surveyed, said Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, when he visited Edmonton.

Decision as to whether the line will run into the Lake Athabasca district from the present waterways line of the N.A.R., from the North Battleford area or from Prince Albert still has not been made, he said, and no immediate action on construction is contemplated.

Sir Edward, arriving aboard his special train from Calgary, visited government house to pay respects to Hon. J. C. Bowen, lieutenant-governor. He left for Dawson Creek, B.C., to inspect the lines of the N.A.R.

Flag Profits In Japan

Tokyo.—The Japanese government has decided to allow its flag makers to take advantage of patriotism to profiteer. The prices of national flags have risen sharply owing to the great demand during patriotic demonstrations.

Intelligent Control

Indiscriminate Relief Grants Breaking Down Moral Fibre

Winnipeg.—Indiscriminate relief grants must be replaced by specific grants with intelligent control to see they are applied properly, A. B. Purvis, chairman of the National Employment Commission, told the young men's section of the Winnipeg Board of Trade.

"Indiscriminate grants are breaking down the moral fibre of those on relief and unless we solve this problem in the next few years we shall suffer far worse things in the next depression than we suffered in the last," he said.

The relief recipient must be scientifically classified, he added. "The employables and those who are unemployable through no fault of their own, must be separated from those who don't want to work."

"Only in Saskatchewan have we a really bad situation and I think it should be a national problem to see that those courageous people are helped, through another bad year," Mr. Purvis continued. "But the drought area disaster stands almost by itself and those who said we should never get back to the standard of prosperity we enjoyed in 1929 will soon look foolish."

WOULD PREVENT THE TESTING OF ALBERTA LAWS

Edmonton.—Calculated to prevent court actions testing validity of Alberta legislation, three orders-in-council have been passed by the provincial government. Premier Aberhart said here.

The orders which prevent clerks or registrars of the Alberta supreme court from filing or entering any statement of claim or order intended to question validity of provincial legislation without consent of the lieutenant-governor-in-council, achieve the same result but in a different manner than the amendment to the Judicature Act disallowed Aug. 17 by the Dominion government.

Amending the consolidated rules of the Alberta supreme court under authority of the Judicature Act, the orders have been signed by Lieutenant-Governor J. C. Bowen.

The first order prohibited clerks of the court from entering or filing any statement of claim or any other notice intended to institute court action testing any provincial legislation.

The second order extended provisions to prohibit starting of court actions, and the third amended the original order to include court registrars as well as clerks.

Actions testing constitutionality of provincial statutes can be started only when the lieutenant-governor-in-council grants a fiat, according to provisions of the orders.

The Dominion government will not have the power to veto the orders, it was believed, because the province has authority to amend the rules of court under the Judicature Act, and that act could not be disallowed because it has been in effect more than one year.

Improving Civil Aircraft

British Manufacturers Must Meet Challenge From Other Countries

London.—Aroused by growing competition from United States and German civil aircraft manufacturers, British constructors are concentrating on the production of a new air liner to meet the challenge to their markets in the dominions and foreign lands.

A meeting of the airline operators has been held with Viscount Swinton, air minister. His presence was construed as an indication the problem is viewed with anxiety by the ministry and that financial assistance from the government may be forthcoming to ensure speedy action.

It is understood the air ministry will open negotiations at an early date with the dominions on a plan for unified action in meeting foreign competition, the question of suitable craft for speeded-up intra-empire service, consolidation and extension of present markets.

Preparing For Sessions

Dominion- Provincial Relations Inquiry May Start In Winnipeg

Winnipeg.—Possibility the first session of the royal commission on Dominion-provincial relations will be held in Winnipeg was seen here when Hon. Newton Rowell, Ontario chief justice and commission chairman, arrived to confer with provincial government officials.

With western provinces facing acute problems their presentations likely would be heard first and "it may be convenient to begin in Winnipeg," Mr. Justice Rowell said. He continued westward, stopping in Regina, Edmonton and Victoria to draw up preliminary commission arrangements with provincial government heads.

Search For Lost Flyers

Only Two Russian Planes Now Engaged In The Quest

Barrow, Alaska.—Withdrawal of Sir Hubert Wilkins and his huge flying boat from the search for the lost Soviet transpolar flyers left only two Russian planes engaged in the quest on this side of the north pole.

One of the planes, an amphibian piloted by Alexander Gratiatsky, was several hundred miles north of here on a 2,000-mile search flight.

The other, piloted by Basil Zerkoff, was undergoing repairs following a minor crashup several days ago east of here.

Flight followers here were told four Russian planes were at Rudolph Island, Russian Arctic air base in Northern Siberia, awaiting favorable weather for a hop across the pole. No reports have been received from Moscow of their progress lately.

Spanish City On Fire

Historic Town Blazing In Path Of Government Offensive

Madrid.—Historic, picturesque Granada de Tohermosa in southern Spain was a blazing no man's land in the path of the Spanish government's offensive in the Cordoba battle zone.

The government said its forces swept across the Cordoba-Badajoz provincial border and into the outskirts of the town after their air force bombarded it throughout the day. The civilian population had abandoned their homes.

High in the tower of the central cathedral insurgent machine gunners continued to spray lead among government troops, many of whom crawled into a nearby cemetery and dug in for a siege behind the tombstones.

Father Of Patent Office

W. J. Lynch Dies At Ottawa At Age Of 84

Ottawa.—William Joseph Lynch, former chief of the Dominion patent office, died here recently. He was 84 and a native of Quebec City.

He was known as "father of the patent office" which he served for more than 50 years, author of several patent law books which circulated over the world, and was a delegate to patent law conferences in Washington and London, England.

At the age of 13 years he joined the patent office, then under the department of agriculture, and was promoted at regular intervals, eventually attaining the post of chief of the office in 1908. He held this position until 1921, when he was forced to retire through failing health.

LEAGUE MOVES TO BRING A HALT TO CONFLICT IN CHINA

Geneva.—British spokesman indicated that Great Britain was weighing resurrection of the Washington nine-power treaty guaranteeing China's territorial integrity in a drastic effort to end the Sino-Japanese conflict.

The British idea, the spokesman said, would be to propose a conference of the signatories of the 1922 pact, all of which have special interests in the far east. The United States would be invited as one of the signers.

They would, formulate, if possible, a positive and united program bringing to a halt Japan's conflict with China. Both Japan and China signed the nine-power pact.

An extended meeting between French and Italian representatives aroused optimistic discussion in informed League of Nations circles. Yvon Delbos, French foreign minister, and Renato Bova-Scopa, Italy's representative at Geneva, were believed to have laid the groundwork for improving Italy-French relations. They have been strained by the deadlock over the Mediterranean anti-piracy patrol and over intervention in Spain.

The representatives explored a wide range of existing and potential sources of estrangement between the two countries, it was understood.

Delbos informed Bova-Scopa France was pleased over Italy's willingness to negotiate concerning the Mediterranean but was apprehensive over the continued presence of Italian volunteers in the insurgent Spanish army. He urged the inadvisability of sending more Fascist troops into Spain.

Scopa gave assurance Italy has no intention of violating the integrity of Spanish territory and that Italy would be satisfied with equality in principle, if not in actuality, in the Nyon established anti-piracy patrol.

JAPANESE BOMBS SPREAD DEATH IN CHINESE CITIES

Shanghai.—Japan's air force carried its campaign of death and terror to a score or more cities throughout nearly all of eastern China.

Canton, great metropolis of the south, suffered the severest punishment, with 2,000 dead or wounded in two days of bombing.

Nanking, the capital, escaped after the two raids, but numerous towns within a 200-mile radius felt the wrath of the Japanese bombers.

Whether rainy weather or the protests of Great Britain, the United States, France and Germany against the Nanking bombardment kept the Japanese airmen away from the capital was uncertain. At any rate Nanking went un bombed although reports of an incendiary attack of 55 planes had left the Shanghai region flying west kept the capital in acute tension for several hours.

The air fleet apparently spent most of its force against the Kiangyin fort on the Yangtze river about 80 miles east of Nanking, although fragmentary reports indicated several other towns in the lower Yangtze valley were bombed.

Foreign observers said of harrowing scenes in Canton, where uncounted corpses littered the streets after a series of bombings which apparently surpassed in destructive effect anything either Nanking or Shanghai has felt.

Nearly all victims were civilians, most of them refugees huddled in pitiful camps. Foreign observers said the bombers had not damaged a single government building or military establishment in Canton.

In Shanghai a Japanese navy spokesman declared the bombings of Chinese cities would continue. "In order to bring the war to an early conclusion and make it impossible for China to continue its anti-Japanese policies," He insisted, however, only military objectives would be bombed.

On the land front northwest of Shanghai the Japanese attacked at Lotien, 15 miles from here. Chinese said 300 Japanese were killed near Lotien when an assaulting detachment was surrounded and cut to pieces.

The Japanese admitted they were facing increasing difficulties on that front, as continued rains made quagmires of the roads and immobilized their mechanized power.

Short Shipping Season

Lack Of Grain At Churchill Brings Only Two Weeks To Port

Ottawa.—Lack of grain offering for export at Churchill has brought one of the shortest shipping seasons since the opening of navigation through Hudson Strait. Only two freighters visited the Manitoba port on Hudson Bay this year, their combined cargoes clearing out the elevator there.

While the normal season was considerable time to run and ice conditions are favorable, no further shipments are anticipated from Churchill.

Work In Quebec

Quebec.—Hon. Johnny Bourque, acting minister of land and forests, said that about 45,000 lumbermen will be employed in Quebec forests this winter by lumber companies. Last year's wood-cutting campaign employed to 35,000 men and the coming season's figure probably will be an all-time record.

Chicago.—With wholesale and retail beef prices at the highest levels in years, choice steers brought an 18-year top of $19.50 per hundred-weight in the Chicago livestock market. It was a price that gave cattle feeders their best profit margin on record, livestock men said.

GOOD WORK DONE BY WEEKLIES

The weekly newspapers of Canada are more than the merely "potential" influence in the cause of sane public thinking and action that was claimed for them by the president of the dominion association at Halifax Thursday.

Already they are serving that cause most faithfully and effectively. No where have they shown a clearer grasp of public problems or more courage in standing by their opinions than in Alberta. The course that the weeklies of this province have followed during the critical times through which it has been passing cannot be praised too highly. The great majority of those in charge of these publications have done their calling the utmost credit.—Edmonton Journal.

At the United Church Presbytery meeting held at Bellevue last week, the following resolution was passed: "That this year 1937 God has prospered us by giving us an abundant harvest in most places in the Lethbridge Presbytery, and that we express our thankfulness by sending to the Saskatchewan drought area at least one car of wheat and vegetables, or the equivalent, from various districts, and in this way repay in a small way the valuable supplies sent to and received by parts of our presbytery during the drought of 1936."

The Dominion Archivist is going to show Mr. Aberhart that he is wrong in saying there is no written constitution for Canada. He says the original is in England and he is going to get a certified copy. As a student, the Premier was taught that the B.N.A. Act is our constitution. As a teacher he taught it. If the original had been lost and all copies destroyed it would still be the constitution. Nearly all his acts and orders-in-council since he became premier have been written within its four corners. It is only when he was in extremity that he opposed the constitution and thus showed there is one and that it contains federal veto power, a provision that was liable to be forgotten through disuse.—H. C. in Pertinent Topics.

"Dog Eat Dog": This is as near as you can describe the situation in Alberta today, after two years of Social Credit government. No due respect is given to the rights and privileges of minorities. Every person who is not a supporter of the Aberhart government is regarded as an enemy, and the sooner the rest of the people realize this the better. Dictatorship is only known in Germany and Italy is indicated by the licensing of trades and business act, introduced in the legislature this week. Minister of Trade Manning, inexperienced youth, will have the right to say whether a man can carry on business or not.—The dog fight is on, the golden rule is discarded.—It is now "dog eat dog."—Pincher Creek Echo.

The conceited young man had been in hospital for some time, and had been extremely well looked after by the pretty nurse. "Nurse," said the patient one morning, "I'm in love with you. I don't want to get well."

"Don't worry," replied the nurse cheerfully, "you won't. The doctor's in love with me, too, and he saw you kissing me this morning."

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(By C. B. Windsor)

EDMONTON, September 28.—Laws without precedent in British history, but similar to those which provided the foundation for the establishment of dictatorship in Russia, Germany and Italy, have come into the Alberta legislature this week to be inflicted upon this province in the name of "Social Credit," by the orders of a man who remains safely 6,000 miles away.

By one new act brought into the house, the minister of trade and industry, who happens at the moment to be Hon. E. C. Manning, Premier William Aberhart's right-hand man and ex-secretary of the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute, has absolute authority to decree that any business or trade or occupation within the province—and there is nothing to say that farming is not included—can be carried on only by license.

He has absolute authority to refuse a license to any man engaged or employed in any business or occupation, or to suspend or cancel any license already granted. One minister thus becomes the absolute dictator of the livelihood, or lack of it, of 750,000 Albertans, according to the act. He has power to close down any business—any firm or store or barber shop, bank or grain elevator when he chooses, provided he says it is "in the public interest." It has been denied, of course, that there is any intention of using such authority like that, but the power is there in the terms of the act.

In addition, the minister has full power to set the amount of license fees applying to any individual business or employee. Only maximum amounts are set, and they are $1,000 for a company, $500 for an agent of a company, and $100 for individuals.

According to advance reports, the bill was aimed primarily at banks and at newspapers. Along with the terms of the press bill itself, the licensing act would permit the government to close down any newspaper, or take the livelihood away from any newspaperman, presuming to report anything the government did not like, or publish any criticism of the government and so-called "Social Credit." Strangulation of the free press was the first step taken by Benito Mussolini when he set about establishing his dictatorship—even before he began collecting multiple portfolios in the government for himself to establish a one-man cabinet.

Now press licensing and control enters the Alberta scene. A propaganda bureau was set up last week to distribute "news" and "information" about the Aberhart government and the Social Credit board to Alberta newspapers, and to attempt to assure that the government and the board would have published in this province's excellent weekly newspapers the things that officialdom wants published.

To divert attention from Social Credit promises, evidently, or to place the responsibility for paying basic dividends upon someone other than the government which promised them, banks operating in Alberta are to be taxed a total of $2,000,000 annually, according to the terms of another act as it was introduced. That means a tax of $12,000 annually on the average bank branch in Alberta, in the average town. And that levy takes account of other taxes in the form of licenses, or of municipal or dominion or income taxes. Of 221 branches of banks in Alberta, 186 have been operating at a loss in recent years, according to a recently broadcast bank statement. There are no huge profits from which the tax can be taken. It remains to be seen whether some branches must close down, or whether borrowers must bear the cost of that taxation.

The business of being a Social Credit "expert" has become recognized by the government now; it has agreed to pay L. D. Byrne, a young Englishman who has been working in an insurance office at Birmingham, $2,750 for his travelling expenses from Birmingham to Edmonton, so that when he gets here he can start expediting on a 10-year contract. That $2,750 will be enough, presumably, to pay his board fare and the train fare of Mr. Byrne and members of his family whom he may want to be living along with him, but it is not enough to pay the fare of an "assistant" whom he wants to bring with him from England. So the government has provided another $400 as travelling expenses for the assistant.

Meantime G. F. Powell, the "efficiency expert" who was sent to Alberta by Major C. H. Douglas and who is giving the government its orders day by day, is worrying along without a salary at all, so far as it is known, but with what is known as a "subsistence allowance" by which the government pays him $12 per day. And G. L. MacLachlan, the one-time insurgent member of the legislature, who was appointed chairman of the Social Credit board, is getting a "subsistence allowance" of $19 a day, "including Sundays" for being chairman, and the other four members of the board are getting $8 a day. Those rates, of course, do not include their travelling expenses or their seasonal indemnities of $1,500 a year.

Steadily the Alberta government and the legislature has moved toward a complete break with the dominion government in the past few weeks in the name of "Social Credit." Little thought has been given to the results of such a break on the economic welfare of the province, it seems, and little thought has been given to the position of Alberta as just one little province, one fifteenth of the great Dominion of Canada. A resolution brought into the legislature last Friday defied the other 14 fifteenths; it called upon the house to agree that the legislation passed last month by the dominion should be implemented by the province anyway. And although every member of the legislature, when he took his seat, swore fealty to the crown, the "secret pledge" which 50 members signed dur-

WORLD'S BIGGEST SHIP-

BUILDING CENTRE IS

CLYDE, IN SCOTLAND

Among the world's shipbuilding rivers, the Clyde in Scotland is still by far the greatest. Its yards at the present time are constructing about one-sixth of the world's new ships. During the past six months the Clyde has turned out 47 ships of nearly 166,000 tons, the highest haul of output since 1930. Lack of adequate supplies of steel and other materials is hampering the industry at the present time. In Great Britain the extraordinary demand for steel products continues undiminished, in spite of the fact that production is maintained at the rate of over 1,000,000 tons of steel ingots a month.

Vegetables are going co-operative, according to the Pincher Creek Echo, which states that Miss Gladys Cook has on show at the Cook store in Pincher a family of six well grown carrots growing under one crown or stalk.

ing the August session called upon them to give their unquestioning support to the Social Credit board and "experts" in anything they might do, "whether for good or ill," as the pledge says.

William S. Chant, who was elected two years ago as Social Credit member for Camrose and became minister of agriculture, and John W. Huggill, who was elected in Calgary and became attorney-general, were handed that pledge to sign. Mr. Chant had been ousted from the cabinet, because of his views toward the premier; he would not sign such a pledge. Mr. Huggill was still in the cabinet by his position, he was forced to sign it. And last Friday, they both crossed the floor of the legislature to join the opposition side.

Mr. Chant has just been given a vote of confidence by a Social Credit zone organization in his riding, with a demand to the government that he be invited to re-enter the cabinet. And Mr. Huggill has just repudiated the pledge he signed under pressure, and explained his position to his own constituents and to the people at large through two broadcasts and an interview.

Mr. Huggill told the interviewer of the rise of dictatorship in Alberta, with its espionage system by which, he said, "spies carry out network reports the doings and sayings of government officials direct to the premier." "You can expect anything now! Anything!" he declared.

The province is being governed by Powell's instructions, but within the executive council, "the cabinet is just Aberhart eight times; he just makes up his mind what to do, and then calls in the boys and lets them know; the 'Divine right of Aberhart' is the basis of his political philosophy," said the former attorney-general.

"One day in the premier's hotel room I told him my opinion of him. That was several months ago. He started laying for me, to speak colloquially, shortly after that. I could never get any proper instructions. I didn't want my opinions or my advice in writing. Everything was surrounded in vagueness, hedging and mental reservations.

"The truth of the whole matter is that he wants somebody else to produce the rabbit out of the hat for him, leaving him to pose as the cunning magician. There has been a good deal of religion 'preached', but no Christianity practiced.

"I think he would have liked to let go several times, but he's like a pud-derless ship. He doesn't know where he's going and his steering gear is out of order. No man ever has a better opportunity to do real work for the province, but he has bungled it lamentably. There has been nothing in Alberta's history to equal it."

The order-in-council passed recently to prevent anyone from challenging Alberta statutes in the courts in seeking personal liberty and civil rights amendment, said Mr. Huggill, "is a chamber method—the sort of methods that cost King Charles I. his head."

HEAVY TOURIST

INFLUX TO CANADA

Value of the motor tourist traffic to Canada was shown recently in an address given by W. G. Robertson, secretary of the Canadian Automobile Association.

Mr. Robertson said it had been estimated that approximately 20,000,000 tourists will enter Canada as visitors this year and that they would spend at least $300,000,000 in this country.

"Such an expenditure," he said, "exceeding the estimated value of the 1937 wheat crop, is truly a remarkable dividend on Canada's investment in highways and tourist attractions. It is a dividend which will be distributed in every part of the country to all sections of the population."

These figures on estimated tourist revenue are of special interest to Albertans, living in a province that is not approached by any other in the grandeur of its natural parks and other scenic attractions.

"We should make even stronger bids to obtain our proper share of the tourist traffic," said an official of the Alberta Motor Association. "When it is realized that 80 cents of the tourist's dollar is spent for his touring and living expenses, one will see how important it is to develop this lucrative trade within our borders."

GARDENERS AND LADIES

ARE WORST OFFENDERS

Montreal, Que., Sept. 28.—By leaving their implements on trains, a few gardeners have solved the problem of what to do with old garden tools now that the summer is over—at least that is the impression given to the Lost and Found Department of the Canadian National Railways in Montreal.

T. P. Mooney, who has charge of the lost articles bureau at the depot, also reports that whereas it was commonplace to receive gentlemen's hats, the men are becoming more careful of their property. Ladies' hats, however, are becoming more numerous, and Mr. Mooney suggests that the fair sex would do well to bring hat pins back into style, for at one time it was a rare occurrence to have a lady's hat turned in as lost property.

A dinner guest in a Virginian home was telling his host how to prepare ham that would even be better than famous Virginian ham.

Guest: "Place the ham in a deep pan, and the first day soak it in a bottle of rye whiskey and let it cook a while. The second day, add a bottle of Jamaica rum, and the third day a bottle of port wine, and the fourth day a bottle of Bourbon."

Host (turning to colored cook): "What do you think of that?"

Negro cook: "Ah! don't know 'bout de ham, but sho' sounds like mighty fine gravy."

In order to take care of over-night business between Lethbridge and Regina, the Canadian Pacific Railway now operate a through sleeping car, leaving Lethbridge at 6:20 p.m., and arriving Regina 8:10 a.m., eastbound; and leaving Regina 6:15 p.m., arriving Lethbridge 8:05 a.m., westbound, daily except Saturday from each end. This service is proving very popular with the travelling public as it insures a most convenient and restful service, at it involves no change in cars at Medicine Hat.

TAXES EQUAL PAYROLL

The petroleum industry, along with other industries, has always been willing to support a reasonable and equitable tax program. But when discriminatory taxation reaches the point when the taxes paid annually by a single industry equal the total annual payroll, it is time that effective steps were taken to combat a situation that can only end in economic disaster.

As collectors of the gasoline tax, filling station operators large and small may labor under the delusion the public is paying the tax bill and the vendor himself is not losing any money in the operation. That is not the case. When one third of the amount the customer pays goes to the government, a good proportion of that one third would otherwise go into the purchase price of more petroleum products.

No one disputes that governments must levy taxes. But in recent years there has been a tendency either to make it too much or to shift more of the load on the back of industry.

Unfortunately, political reasons have sometimes been back of such policies. "Letting George run the government" has opened the door for politics and closed it to statesmanship.

Five thousand British farmers recently received $40,000 from the Pigs Marketing Board, representing the final payment under the 1936 marketing contract, and is the special bonus on pigs delivered to registered bacon curers during the first four months of the year.

WHAT ABERHART HAS DONE

It is interesting to review what the present Premier has done since assuming power more than two years ago. The following is a summarization of what indisputably has happened and we do not pretend that it covers everything, but we leave our readers to draw their own conclusions:—

1. HE HAS INCREASED taxes by new and increased taxes, and by new and hitherto unheard of licenses, or perhaps it should be levies.

2. HE HAS PASSED codes galore, many of which are now not operating, but are reposing peacefully in the pages of the Alberta Gazette, where nobody can find them when wanted.

3. HE HAS DEFAULTED in meeting the Provincial Bonded indebtedness both for principal and interest.

4. HE HAS REFUSED to pay interest at an agreed rate, but has insisted on collecting from others interest at the very rate which he refused to pay.

5. HE HAS DENIED, or attempted to deny, to certain citizens the right of access to our Courts to enforce or redress civil wrongs.

6. HE HAS TRIED unsuccessfully to finance with "Prosperity Certificates," or "Velocity Dollars," and by their use managed to pay 30% interest on money obtained by their sale.

7. HE HAS REQUESTED civil servants to accept voluntarily as part of their salaries "Prosperity Certificates," but neither he nor any of his Cabinet saw fit to do likewise.

8. HE HAS DISCHARGED without assigned reasons many civil servants, some of whom had served the Province for years faithfully and well, and appointed in their places avowed Social Crediters.

9. HE HAS SUCCEEDED in increasing the list of civil servants by over 500 net, mostly all of which are avowed Social Crediters.

10. HE HAS ASKED for, and obtained, the resignations, some of which were given very reluctantly, of the following ex-ministers of the Crown: Ross, Cockcroft, Chant and Huggill.

11. HE HAS DEFAULTED in meeting the fiduciary obligations of the Province with respect to Provincial Savings Certificates.

12. HE HAS STARTED and discontinued a scheme vaguely known as a "Social Credit Clearing House" scheme at some cost to the Province.

13. HE HAS ALLOWED the Municipal Hall Board to collapse.

14. HE HAS DELEGATED to people who were not elected, the job and responsibility of putting Social Credit over, through a body of imported and self-styled experts.

15. HE HAS PASSED unconstitutional legislation, against the advice of his own attorney-general, knowing it to be ultra vires of the powers of the Province.

AND THE END IS NOT YET.
—Bassano Recorder.

That there are "nuts" in Alberta is evidenced by the fact that our government, in addition to granting a more than average Great Britain salary, has undertaken to pay the travelling expenses of an "imported" individual, who had no interest in Canada prior to the year 1937. What about those poor starving individuals in the supposed-to-be "poverty in the midst of plenty" who have tried for a decade to make a livelihood in Alberta, and cannot?

Queenstown on Saturday. The visitors took an early lead to win the first 16-1 and the second 8-4. In the double-header played at Arrowwood on Sunday, the visitors again came through with two wins with scores of 14-4 and 9-7. From reports of the games, the visitors were, as the scores indicate, the better of the two teams. Although the locals could show a far better brand of baseball, lack of practice was the main drawback. The Arrowwood diamond has been used only when a visiting team came to our town.—Arrowwood Note in the Bassano Recorder.

WHAT ABERHART HAS NOT DONE

Since we have seen fit to summarize what Mr. Aberhart has done since he assumed office more than two years ago, it might not be amiss to take a look at what he has not done, and again leave our readers to draw their own conclusions:—

1. HE HAS NOT abolished poverty in the midst of plenty.

2. HE HAS NOT curtailed nor finally abolished taxes.

3. HE HAS NOT reduced the cost of living.

4. HE HAS NOT paid a dividend of $25.00 per month, or any dividend, to every adult bonafide citizen of the province.

5. HE HAS NOT established a "Just Price" for anything.

6. HE HAS NOT succeeded in operating any worth while price fixing codes.

7. HE HAS NOT met the maturities of the Province as they became due for both principal and interest.

8. HE HAS NOT paid off the Provincial debt.

9. HE HAS NOT provided any money in the estimates for retirement of the debt of the Province.

10. HE HAS NOT succeeded in financing with Prosperity Certificates, nor did he take any of these in payment of his own salary or any part thereof, while at the same time the civil service accepted part of their salaries in script as a voluntary gesture.

11. HE HAS NOT produced, as yet, any plan of his own, or of anyone else leading to Social Credit as enunciated by him in his manual or from the platform.

12. HE HAS NOT tried to keep our Courts open to all classes of citizens.

13. HE HAS NOT abolished unemployment, nor created work for every idle man in the Province.

14. HE HAS NOT passed an effective Recall Act.

15. HE HAS NOT fulfilled his fiduciary obligations to citizens and others who hold Provincial Savings Certificates, and who have a right to expect these certificates to be paid in cash on demand.

expect these certificates to be paid in cash on demand.

All of which is true to the best of our knowledge and belief. So help me.—Bassano Recorder.

How many poor people from Europe or other parts of the world have come to Alberta, the advertised land of "poverty in the midst of plenty," and ever had one cent of their expenses paid by the Alberta government prior to the year 1937—and September at that?

Flowers And Gardens

British Public Spends Huge Amount On Cut Flowers Each Year

One hundred tons, representing 6,000,000 blooms, would arrive at Paddington Station in a single evening. Such was the Great Western Railway's forecast early last February of the "peak" traffic in cut flowers from the Shilly Isles, Cornwall, and Guernsey.

Six months pass, and we read that 250,000 home-grown roses are sold at Covent Garden in a day; that more than 2,000,000 dozen of home-grown carnations pass through Covent Garden in a year, and that every year the public spends on cut flowers some £15,000,000. The appropriate comment seems to be "You don't say!" And, indeed, there is one thing which these impressive figures do not say for certain—they prove a genuine love of flowers in more than an imposing "gentleman's library" proves a genuine love of books.

Evidence of a genuine love of flowers must be sought elsewhere, and the search need not take long. The annual havoc wrought on primrose patches and bluebell fields is evidence of an ignorant and selfish, but genuine love of flowers. It is a national characteristic. Foreigners, and natives returning home from abroad, observe in every cottage garden the Englishman's queer love of vegetable growths that he cannot eat nor sell. Flowers show all over the country speak to the same effect.—London Times.

Special Apparatus Used To Move Freight Cars In Germany.

Freight trains will be moved from place to place without a driver as the result of a special apparatus which has been installed in the main freight station at Stettin, Germany. The apparatus enables freight cars to be assembled, their speed electrically controlled, and the train brought to a standstill by means of an automatic brake. The brakeman directs all these movements from his cabin, watching the progress of the train on an automatic chart.

Prevention of Cancer No. 4

Education of the Public in Cancer

While education of doctors in Cancer is a matter largely for the colleges and medical societies, lay education is singularly the task of the voluntary society. England has its British Empire Cancer Campaign, a medical and lay body devoted to the stimulation of research in cancer; and the People's League of Health, whose energies are directed to the education of the public in respect to disease of all kinds. France and Belgium have Les Societes contre le Cancer, for public instruction in malignant disease, while the United States has the American Society for the Control of Cancer, as well as the flourishing Women's Field Army Against Cancer. The American Society named is so impressed with the value of public education in the cancer field that for the last two years the entire resources of the Society have been directed to cancer education.

The silence of internal cancer, the absence of pain in the early stages, the insidious character of the malady, bind the man or woman to impending danger. Education in regard to internal cancer can do little other than to induce the adult, the person above 35, to have a regular medical examination at least once a year. In cancers of the skin, lips, mouth, breast and uterus; the early signs of cancer may be recognized by almost every person of intelligence. Recognition of the early signs of cancer which may be learned by anyone, would save many precious lives.

A person can do a very great deal in cancer control. Prevention of cancer depends, let us repeat, upon the avoidance of irritants, upon periodic health examination and education of doctors and the public about malignant disease.

Proving A White Elephant

Report States Mussolini Is Having Trouble In Abyssinia

A London letter in the Ottawa Journal says while others were urging unhesitatingly provocative action by Great Britain, and endangering international relations, there were cooler heads who contended that, left severely alone, Mussolini would find his Moscow in Abyssinia.

This view seems to have been the one held by Italy's new province in proving already a costly and embarrassing white elephant. Pacification of the native tribes, who are developing great enterprise in guerrilla fighting, looks as far off as ever. It is taking half-a-million Italian settlers—behind barbed wire at that—to garrison the country. Rationing there is no easy or inexpensive problem. Worse still, they are beginning to murmur against their destiny. Abyssinia is not popular in Italy.

Incredible though it sounds, it is reported that Mussolini has made overtures to get Halle Selassie to return to Addis Ababa as titular ruler under the aegis of Imperial Rome's suzerainty. The ex-Emperor refuses to negotiate except through Geneva, and to avoid importunity by Italian agents, has removed to the Crown Prince, from Jerusalem. Failing Halle Selassie, Mussolini thinks the Crown Prince might serve.

Merely Doing Their Job

Toronto Man Does Not Consider Reporters A Pest

Hon. R. C. Matthews of Toronto, minister of national revenue in Premier Bennett's cabinet from 1933 to 1935, said in an interview at 263-265 Dundas St. W. that "the attitude of some business men and public leaders that reporters are pests."

"I always feel they are merely doing their job in the way they are expected to perform it. I have found Canadian newsmen on the whole a gentlemanly and well-informed lot."

Floating Messages

Long Ocean Voyages Are Taken By Bottles Thrown Into The Sea

On July 26 of last year a hundred corked bottles were thrown into the ocean off Newfoundland by an ornithological expedition of the American Museum of Natural History. The object was to discover facts about ocean currents of the Newfoundland region.

Each bottle contained a card to be mailed to the museum, only the date and place where the bottle was found. In less than a year thirteen of the cards were returned. Most of the replies were from Ireland, indicating that the bottles drifted south in the Labrador current and thence into the northeast drift current. The airline distance from Newfoundland is about 1,800 miles; it is probable that the bottles drifted much farther.

One of the most recent replies came from Felix Bartanedia, commander of a detachment of marines with the Spanish insurgents. He mailed a card from a bottle picked up near Bilbao, with the slogan "Viva Espana" written across it.

Another bottle was found in Spanish waters by Frank Lowell, chief petty officer of a British warship on patrol duty in the Bay of Biscay.

Last Autumn Raymond Scheib, a senior at the University of Pittsburgh, accompanied by two friends from the Middle West, returned from a summer course at Munich University aboard the steamship New York. On October 3, four days out of Liverpool, the young men wrote a message on a page from their travel log, put it in a bottle and threw it overboard.

On April 19 Miss Peggy Murphy, of Reenagh, Waterville, County Kerry, found the bottle in Ballyskellig Bay, Ireland. As Scheib's name and address were the only decipherable ones on the note, Miss Murphy wrote to him and inclosed the faded paper from the bottle.

Such floating messages not only help to determine scientific facts but bring a touch of romance and color into many lives.—New York Sun.

The Only Safe Way

Stop At Railway Crossing If Train Can Be Seen

A newspaper reporter interested in getting an engineer's eye-view of grade crossing accidents recently took a ride in the cab of a fast streamlined train—and came back with an excellent tip for all motorists.

A train's speed, he reports, is extremely deceptive. A fast passenger train may travel a thousand feet in a little better than eight seconds. The train may seem to be a safe distance away as you approach the crossing, when, as a matter of fact, it is perilously close. So the reporter boiled his new knowledge down to one extremely sensible bit of advice. If, when you approach a grade crossing, you can see a train approaching, you simply have not time to cross safely ahead of it. If you can see the train, wait for it.—Vancouver Sun.

More Strauss Operas

At Age Of 73 German Composer Has Two Operas In Preparation

At 73 years, Richard Strauss is able to stir two operas on the fire at the same time.

He just has removed one from the fire, to be exact. This he calls "Friedenstag," which means "Day of Peace," and may be taken to celebrate Strauss' reinstatement by Nazi cultural circles.

This work is to be given first next summer, at the Munich Staatoper. A second work, called "Daphne," is not yet finished. It will be heard first at Dresden, it is said. The libretto for each is the product of Joseph Gregor.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
OCTOBER 3
CHRISTIAN SONSHIP

Golden text: But as many as received him, to them gave he the right to become children of God, even to them that believe on his name. John 1:12.

Lesson: 1. John, Chapter 3.

Devotional reading: John 15:1-8.

Explanations And Comments

Our Present Position, and Future Destiny, 1 John 3:1, 2. Think what a love the Father hath for us, in letting us be called "children of God!" This is what we are. The world does not recognize us? That is simply because it did not recognize him. We are children of God, now, beloved; what we are to be is not apparent yet, but we do know that when he appears, we are to be like him—for we are to see him as he is. (Moffatt's translation.)

Our Obligation as Children of God, 1 John 3:3. And everyone that hath this hope in him (of being hereafter like God in Christ) makes himself pure even as he is pure. "He who looks on a child as becoming like God hereafter must strive after his likeness now."

Brotherhood Incomplete with Continued Sin, 1 John 3:4-6. Every one that doeth sin doeth also lawlessness; and sin is lawlessness.

"Go into a factory full of spindles and wheels and all intricate machinery: all are connected with some great driving wheel, and when the band is connected all the wheels begin to revolve and all the spindles to play their music. Now imagine every wheel and spindle with a will and purpose of its own, and keep the bands off and let every spindle dance to its own tune—what product would you get from your factory?"

The world is out of gear with God, that is, it is not in tune with him. If we are lawless, are just in so far out of gear with God, and nothing can make it right, then we are swinging back into oneness with God, to what he wills, to do what he would have us do. (Lyman Abbott, quoted by T. Jeffe.)

By "sin" John evidently means deliberate choice of sin. He knows that God was manifested in Christ to take away sin; and he is sinless. He is in his sinfulness not. "That the possibility of sinlessness in present experience is not taught here is clear. From John 1:8, 9. John's thought moves in the region of the idea. The divine life and the life of sin are in idea mutually exclusive. Sin in the Christian is either involuntary or in acknowledgment of contradiction to the ruling principle of his life. The commission of it is to that extent a failure personally to abide in Christ." (Dumelow.)

Love Is Characteristic of the New Life, John 3:16-24. My dear children, let us put our love not into words or into talk, but in deeds, and in love. Thus it is that we may be sure we belong to the truth and reassure ourselves whenever our heart condemns us; for God is greater than our heart, and he knows all. (Moffatt's translation.)

Will Be Modernized

Balmoral Castle Has Always Been Uncomfortable Place

The King and Queen propose to modernize Balmoral to a considerable extent, as they intend to spend some two autumn months there each year. The work will be put in hand when they leave Deeside in early October. Queen Victoria's ideas on the subject of comfort for herself and others were rudimentary. Ministers in attendance had to write in the bedrooms, lords and ladies in waiting were often blue with cold, there was a scarcity of bathrooms, and the furniture was upholstered in fearsome tartan.

It does not look as if world peace will ever be possible until we have beaten our swords into ploughshares and our jazz band crooners into un-consciousness.

Dentist: "There's no need to make all that fuss, sir. Why, I have not touched your tooth yet."

Patient: "No, but you're standing on my corn."

Florida got in the mud that the natives call guano, decided to say we camped right there. Next day the sun shone, and the mud was gone.

The first rain we got going west was in Saskatchewan, then going east our first was in the hot bowl of South Dakota.

In Chicago we staled Flora on the loop, the world's busiest thoroughfare. Was our face red? More of Chicago next week—and Ontario!

Small Amount For Food

Eighty-Eight Cents Monthly Feeds One Person In India

Eighty-eight cents a month a person is all millions of persons in India spend on food, according to a report issued by the Government of India. This bare-eaten day, one pound of rice, ounce of milk, ounce of dried and two ounces of green vegetables and half an ounce of oil and fat. Pointing out that this diet is not only ill-balanced but is insufficient, the report indicates that a well-balanced diet on the same scale could be bought for $1.80 a month.

Travelling Eastward Now—Sees Old Faithful In Yellowstone Park—Through Rainstorms In The Dust

Boys' Mailbox On The World's Busiest Thoroughfare.

Chicago, Ill., U.S.A. (Special Despatch by Bob Sim).—Last week you remember I was writing on a boat half in and half out of Canada. We have driven almost without interruption ever since. Once or twice we stopped to sight-see. Or to watch a wink of sleep. We arrived in the Windy City last night; what did we do? Did we go to a show or a night club? We went to bed and got ten hours' sleep.

Eastward Hoing

After eight or nine weeks westward travelling, after turning the watch about five times, it seemed strange to be in the East. It was, and rather nice, for it's home! As well as eastward ho, that we met as we drove.

The trip took us from Vancouver Island to Seattle, Spokane, and Yellowstone Park. It was a most interesting trip, and we saw as much as we could see. The roads are better than Canadian motorists see their own mountains. We have the materials and machinery, and the men, why don't we build roads to meet the demand of the tourists to see Canada. Tourist trade is one of the greatest industries, but they must have roads.

At Yellowstone we saw the geysers, the hot mud, the Grand Canyon; most interesting of all was the old, the geysers that

"And, Bobbie, old man, some of these days you may be going on a long journey, too," I whispered to him; and after a long pause, I slipped around to the woodshed to get me a sharp-nosed shovel.

We strolled slowly back to the bush, conversing about old times; yet the conversation did not seem to abate the journey. "I've always had a shrewd notion, Bob," I explained to him right cheerfully, "that the little ground-folk have their living quarters under the trees somewhere herabouts, and I'm just going to dig down a little and see if you can find them."

The old dog lay down by the edge of a little pit I was digging, and watched me with furtive interest. "Now just look down there carefully, Bobbie, with those old eyes of yours," I told him, as he stood trustfully beside me, "and you may find out the wonder of the world."

Bob O'New Pileggi never knew in this life what happened to him; and if he awoke in another, his loving old heart forgave the man who shot him. I choked at the thought of shovelling the moist cold earth over his quivering body. A silly notion, of course, it was; but away back I slipped to the house to pilfer a fine new checker-board quilt. Aunt Letitia had made, with its bright scarlet squares cut from a soldier's tunic. So I gave Bob a decent burial with a martial cloak around him.

Then I struck off smartly down the town-line. Pale in the moonlight, spread out before me a shadow-shot road that led on a long journey from love.

My body was in a fever and my head was splitting. I trudged along, fortifying myself with heavy drafts of self pity. I had done no wrong; yet here was fate overturning my little world about my head as plowmen crush the homes and hopes of lesser life in stubble field. Woe's me! I was a poor creature, tramping off to punishment at the whim of a blind force as cruel and heartless as the Roman matron who sent her slave to be torn with stripes and saluted to a crucifixion.

Riding in his heavens, the man in the moon had me in derision. "Why," I asked him, "damn an honest man to the torments of vain longing!"

"Let me tell you, silly, crack-brained human," he sneered at me, "a man seldom marries the woman he loves; and, if he does, it is often a tragedy I find on my hands in my bed moonlight."

"But where is the justice of it all?" I cried.

"Don't ask me, the moon replied. To justify God's ways to man. It is a heavy night's work for me to justify man's ways to God. You trifling world; human notions of justice have little to do with man's mortal fate. It is lucky for most bawlers for justice that they do not get it! Since we are here, let me tell you, 'have the petty merits of mortals controlled the decrees of destiny? Indeed, it is an interesting time I have, up here, strolling around observing affairs.'"

"See that poor suffering woman in the cabin yonder—dying in childbirth?" the moon man enquired. "She dies in the giving of life! How does that fit in with your notions of justice? But let me tell you, the soul of that brave creature flies straight to the arms of her loving Saviour who died for the likes of you. And where was the justice in that?"

"And what have you to say," he asked me, "of that babe yonder, new-born with poison in its bones because of a man's sin? Put that in your pipe, young man, and smoke it at your leisure!"

"It is all very well," the moon man told me, "for men caught in the little traps set by their own sins and mean weaknesses to whimper and cry out for mercy. But the Iron-Quake brave, chanting his war songs as the French burnt his legs to a crisp at the stake, bore himself with the heroic, unflinching spirit that becomes any man trapped in the cruel toils of destiny itself. "I am the great leveler," the moon chuckled to me. "Given time, my beams can flatten out all your trifling affairs down there—even the little gravestones. The Iron put up to tell the country they came from. I keep no record of you mortals, save of the stout hearts that smile at the grim tragedy of life!"

And somehow as I trudged along, his honest talk seemed to renew a serene and right spirit within me. Why all my "rain repining"? After all, I was twenty-three, and five foot ten. A long, fast walk is fine for sweating the annoyances out of a man's mind. By the time I reached Purple Hill, the day was breaking and the shadows were fleeing away. As I swung down it, and turned my face southward, I found myself whistling an Irish tune:

THE INNISKILLEN DRAGON
Her hair is as bronze as a wild turkey's wing,
Her eyes are as clear as the blue-belle spring;
And light is her laugh as the sun on the sea,
But the weight of the world comes between her and me.

Now what can man do when the world is his foe
And the weight of relations fall on him like snow?
But bend the brow boldly and fare away far
To follow good fortune and win fame in the war?

CHAPTER XII.

I was travelling in a southeasterly direction along Huron-Ontario-Street, the old centre trunk-road that cut across the Province of Upper Canada from Lake Huron on the north to the mouth of the Credit River on the shore of Lake Ontario. A three hours' tramp brought me, abruptly to the sharp edge of the Caledon hills; and standing there, a thousand feet above sea level, I looked out over a great undulating plain that sloped southward, thirty miles beyond the eyes' reach, to the waters of the lower lake. That long range of highland resembles the sharp above line of an ancient island and the waters of which receded before God's handwork, leaving its sprawling headlands to shelter the vineyards and peach orchards of the Niagara peninsula, the warm fruitful plains of Burlington, and, further to the west, rich farm lands flowing with milk and honey.

As the Centre Road dipped further into the plains, it became a smooth, well-planked highway dotted with toll-gates; and following through to its end, on Thursday noon I hung up my hat in the roughest tavern by the river mouth at Port Credit and sat down to have my dinner. A heavy cast blow on the lake had sent local shipping running in for shelter and a forest of masts bristled in the harbor as large as schooners and anchored with flocks of smaller craft bobbing around them.

The bar-room across the front of Robert Lynd's smart tavern was crowded with sailormen unloading schooners of liquor and ale. About the kitchen, the women were as busy as farm wives on a threshing day. A bright-eyed Scottish girl was waiting on one of the tables. "Kindly bring me two meals," said I to the girl, "one for myself—the other for a friend."

"Will your friend be in directly?" she asked me, as she planted two steaming bowls of soup on the table. "Don't bother your pretty head about that man," said I, casual like. "I'll look after him—he's a friend very near to my heart." "So I neatly stowed away the two steaming bowls from soups to pudding helpings."

The girl observed me with a merry glint in her eye. "Perhaps," she suggested, "your friend needn't come here, if you don't mind." "No," I told her, "I think that fellow has had enough, but I wouldn't refuse an extra piece of pie for myself."

I had wandered into a smart little port town of five or six hundred souls, where every working-man called himself a mariner and was busy at his trade as any skipper in a cheese. Thirty-five cargo boats of one size or another were sailing from its port that season. The smaller ones were running lake and down the shore to the docks at Toronto. Large schooners of 600 tons burden were over-sea, loading cargoes of produce at Canadian ports and then crossing the lake, 165 miles, to Oswego, or to other American ports of entry. Along the east side of the Credit River stood a row of wharves and grain storehouses; and, in the fall after threshing time, farmers' teams formed long lines on the streets, waiting their turn to unload at the granaries.

I spent that summer and winter at the Credit; and, of course, I became a mariner myself.

Outside had the annoying habit of referring to the Credit as Port Mary, which was considered locally as an opprobrious epithet; and it was amusingly a scandalous name for any sailor to give a snug harbor town with its four smart taverns, at any one of which a man without silver could get himself tight as a drum by standing around taking the drinks on the house.

But the geese, I'll admit, were the cause of much village strife. Every housewife wintered a gander and two or three laying geese; and, as the summer advanced, she put her private mark on their progeny, and thrifly turned out her promises of pin money to join the community flock—at times a thousand strong—on a fair weather frolic in the state on the lake in front of the harbor, but on a storm brewing gave a true weather forecast by sailing its quadruped upstream to the shelter of cat-tail marshes. The geese were as destructive as a plague of locusts, to any barley field that lay convenient to the water edge. They ate everything before them and destroyed everything behind them.

Petrified Dinosaur Eggs

Valuable Discovery Made In Water-ton National Park

Paleontologists will be asked to verify what is believed to be a nest of petrified dinosaur eggs, laid perhaps 60,000,000 years ago, and discovered following a landslide that opened a mountain highway construction job in the Water-ton National park, 45 miles southwest of Lethbridge.

They may be a world first. The only other dinosaur eggs ever discovered were found in Mongolia. The petrified eggs are nine inches long and six inches in diameter. The nest is more than three feet in diameter.

During the thousands of years since the dinosaurs roamed Alberta valleys, time had formed a perfect crust of rock over the nest. Perhaps they are the eggs of a Duck Bill dinosaur, a common variety to paleontologists, or they may be those of some more valuable prehistoric monster.

Valleys of southern Alberta have yielded many dinosaur skeletons, especially in the Cypress hills, south of Medicine Hat, near the United States boundary.

Dr. C. M. Sternberg, paleontologist, a member of the geological survey of Canada, from Ottawa, carried on field research work in the fossil beds of the Cypress hills this summer, making many valuable finds. Bones of a flesh-eating dinosaur, which he estimated lived 60,000,000 years ago, were found.

Dr. Sternberg's opinion on the authenticity of the eggs and nest found in the national park may be sought.

Air Bases

Islands In Pacific To Be Used As Fueling Stations

Remote islets in the Pacific have become the scene of lively activity. Great powers, which only a few years ago passed them by as little consequence, are now quietly picking them up as fueling bases for air-craft.

Landing parties, it is understood, recently went ashore from the cruiser Leander and hoisted the Union Jack on the small islands of Henderson, Ducie and Cato, to the north of Pitcairn, made famous long ago by the mutineers of the Bounty. The islands lie almost midway between New Zealand and South America.

The Leander is in the New Zealand division. She reports to the New Zealand government.

Russia, the United States, France and Japan are all taking a hand in the search for potential air bases. Two years ago, Bahrain, in the Gulf of Persia, was established as a British base. Last year the United States claimed Baker, Jarvis and Howland islands. France acquired Clipperton only last year.

With their smooth lagoons, small landing places for the flying boat.

The law of averages states a flying boat will not hold four seconds often than once in 360 times, he'll hold no aces nearly one-third of his hands.

In India, elephants assisted in the work of repairing a burst water-main. The idea of training these animals as plumbers might be considered. They never forget.

The weather was hot, and the jelly had not set too well.

"No jelly for me, mum," said the youngest. "I don't think it's dead yet."

to the Best Radio Reception

Don't be content with average reception. Eveready Radio Batteries give you more power and steadier power—to say nothing of their longer life.

Don't put up with unnecessary inconvenience. Don't experiment with "fads". Eveready Radio Batteries have been proved by the test of time and simplify all phases of radio operation.

The words EVEREADY, AIR CELL, and LAYERBILT are trade marks of The Canadian National Carbon Co., Limited.

Eveready AIR CELL

Here is the perfect "A" Battery. It needs no re-charging—it is guaranteed to "live on air" for 1,000 playing hours. No expense caused by re-charging and no delays or inconvenience, either. Full power right up to the end of its 1,000 or more hours of life. For economy—for simplicity—choose the Eveready Air Cell "A" battery.

Eveready Super-Layerbilt "B" Battery. Layerbilts have always been the finest—but now Eveready's Super-Layerbilt gives even better performance and longer life. More power to the cubic inch because it is "built in layers"—without the waste areas found in round-cell construction.

The First Locomotives

Were Known By Name Until Now

In the early days of railroading in Canada locomotives were christened with a biblical name. Among the first were three which bore the names of Shem, Ham and Japheth. They were put into service on the Grand Trunk Railway upon the opening up of the line between Montreal and Brockville.

The first locomotives built in Canada were the product of a Hamilton firm; before that the engines used on the Great Western Railway were brought across the Atlantic from Great Britain. For many years the practice of giving names to the locomotives was kept up, just as we still give names to ships. But the crop of locomotives became too great for the vocabulary available, and so numbers were adopted.

It is a far cry from the old days of the middle of the 19th century to the modern streamlined locomotives of advanced engineering design now used on some of the trunk lines.

Reversed The Process

Parachute jumper Ray Bridges, who has made many leaps from aircraft, stood on the ground, hopped into the air, gripped the end of a flying cable, and 25 minutes later was hauled into an airplane flying 2,000 feet over Dallas, Texas, reversing the process which has made him famous.

Leonardo da Vinci, besides being one of the world's greatest painters, was also a sculptor, architect, inventor, musician, engineer, and philosopher.

Canada's Fruit Imports

Are Valued At Over Eight Million Dollars A Year

Canada is a great fruit producing country, but recent figures show that we also import fruit to the value of $15,881,000 a year. These, of course, are fruits we do not grow here or fruits which are brought in from Florida and other States before our own ripen.

The chief import is oranges, last year's being very nearly $7,000,000. Next comes raisins worth $3,845,000. We took over $2,000,000 worth of bananas and $1,600,000 worth of lemons.

The supremacy of oranges imports is no doubt due to the creation of eating sliced oranges or drinking orange juice for breakfast. Not so many years ago oranges and orange juice had no place on the breakfast menu. To-day, the habit is almost universal. And, of course, the main pie is the price of pie.

Have Definite Value

Swimming Goldfish Tend To Soothe Nerves Of Patients.

Swimming goldfish have a definite value as part of the curative equipment of a general hospital, in the opinion of Miss Hawkins, matron of Erith and District Hospital, London. Goldfish swimming in a large glass bowl have a wonderfully good effect on the patients' nerves," she said. "It is fascinating to watch them, and gives the patients something to think about besides their ills. I have already advised the board to place goldfish in our children's ward, and I shall not be content until we have them in every ward in the hospital—or, better still, a large glass tank full of brightly coloured tropical fish. The doctors are all in favour of the idea."

Little Helps For This Week

Except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and pharisees ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven. Matthew 5:20.

The freedom from all selfish sin. The Christian's daily task; Oh, these are things so far below what longings love would ask.

Do not your duties out to God. You perhaps will say that all people fall short of the perfection of the Gospel, and therefore you are content with your failings. But this is saying nothing to the purpose! For the question is not whether this perfection can be fully attained but it is whether you come as near to it as a sincere intention and careful diligence can carry you. Whether you are not in a much lower state than you might be if you sincerely intended and carefully labored to advance yourself in all Christian virtues. We know not exactly how low the least degree of obedience is which will bring a man to heaven. But this we are quite sure of, that he who aims no higher will be sure to fall short of that, and he who goes farthest beyond it will be most blessed.

Conducive To Harmony

The United States Agriculture Department experts said the radio is conducive to barnyard harmony. It makes for contented cows, more gentle horses, satisfied fowl. "It is important that a cow not be excited by loud or boisterous noise at milking time," explained T. E. Woodward, of the Department's Dairy Division. "Barnyard broadcasts should be soft, soothing lyrics."
